Sherr Law Group is located in the heart of Norristown, PA, Anthony Sherr's hometown. The second generation of Sherr attorneys to work in Norristown, Tony is proud to carry on in his father's footsteps in becoming a vital part of the community.

Our lawyers have been successfully representing our clients in local, state and federal courts throughout the eastern and middle portion of Pennsylvania for decades. We have a broad base of litigation expertise ranging from employment law to insurance defense; municipal law to products liability. We have handled litigation for large, publicly traded companies and public entities as well as closely-held businesses and individuals. A big part of our approach is helping to educate clients on all their available options. We believe the most respectful way to engage with a client is to provide the big picture of several approaches so the client can choose what's best for them. We're able to trust the client's decision, because our collective experience allows us to focus on big picture analysis and recommendations.
